SDG3: GOOD HEALTH AND WELL - BEING

The World Islamic Sciences and Education University has a strategic approach to create a safe and healthy environment for learning concrete and virtual facilities. The different faculties and department participate accordingly to make an executive plan to reach this goal.

The engineering department at the university follows the safety requirements through preparing its buildings and lecture halls abide with the safety standards published by quality and accreditation institutions for educational institutions in Jordan. The University is committed to adopting a culture of health, safety and wellness. As for sports and exercise WISE university is intended to construct a new sports hall complex that is meant to serve both students/staff of the institute and the community by creating a multi-functional facility building with a total area 6000-7000 m2.

To achieve the goals of sustainable development, the university continues its development by building new and modern projects that serve the GOOD HEALTH AND WELL – BEING Goal. Therefore, the health department participate continuously by monitoring and updating the collaborations that the university have with local health organization in order to create the best health service for the employee and the student.
