

SDG14: LIFE BELOW WATER

Healthy waters are vitally important to life and environments in general. Our university remains focused on offering food on campus procured from feasibly sustainable sources. The university participated in the World Environment Day with a campaign for clean water areas in partnership with the Ministry of Environment.

Additionally, The World Islamic Sciences and Education University contributes towards the achievement of a sustainable environment and campus through teaching specialised subjects through courses concerned with environments and the biosphere to understand the information on supporting aquatic ecosystems. Additionally, the classes allow students to speak on the environmental impacts of their field of work.
