

Courses Description

Course Title: English 1 for graduate studies

Credit Hours: 3

Code: 0132621

The course intends to teach English Language through meaningful themes and practice in a contextualized setting that promotes both linguistic and cognitive development improving the four skills in English language: listening , reading , writing , speaking.

Course Title: English 2 for graduate studies

Credit Hours: 3

Code: 0132622

The course intends to teach Language through meaningful themes and practice in a contextualized setting that promotes both linguistic and cognitive development. Teaching the four skills : listening , reading ,writing, speaking by providing brief notes on some of the fundamental Islamic expressions and keywords of the Qur'an that contribute to the development of students' linguistics reservoir. The need to understand the four language skills so it can be implemented in our lives: to understand the basic concepts, to cover the receptive and productive skills in language..